

Tyler Bainter

Guest Conductor

Tyler is a senior at Iowa State University in the Flute Performance Program. As a conductor, Tyler has conducted community and university ensembles. Tyler is serving as the Assistant Conductor of the Iowa State University Symphony Orchestra and has served as Associate Conductor of the Des Moines Community Orchestra and student conductor of the Iowa State University Wind Ensemble and Symphonic Band. Tyler has conducted brass ensembles, choirs, and chamber orchestra. He is known as a very engaging and unique conductor. Tyler has conducted works by Rossini, Holst, Mackey, Mendelssohn, and Shostakovich.

Tyler is currently studying under Dr. Thomas Cunningham. Tyler's previous instructors and mentors include Dr. Michael Golemo and Dr. Jacob Harrison. Tyler began composing during the beginning of his undergraduate studies, and has premiered three pieces during that time. He is known for being a fun, challenging, and thoughtful composer. His piece, Romance for Clarinet and Piano, which premiered in Schleswig, IA, in 2017, was written for his friends, Jacob Metzler and Jena Nahnsen, and was well received as an exciting story told through music.

Tyler is studying flute under Dr. Sonja Giles. Tyler has performed in various ensembles at Iowa State including the ISU Flute Ensemble, the Amado Wind Quintet, the Amado Wind Trio, the Ames Children's Choir, the ISU Symphony Orchestra, the ISU Wind Ensemble, the ISU Statesmen, and the ISU Singers.
